CAPITOL RENOVATION TO BE STARTED SOON

Exterior Work Will Be Completed by January 1, 1930, Custodian States.

Work of renovating and remodeling the state capitol building as provided for in a special appropriation of $250,000 made by the general assembly during its last night session, probably will be started soon and all exterior work completed by January 1, 1930, it was announced Monday by W. T. Thurmond, custodian of the capitol edifice. Mr. Thurmond said that estimates already have been furnished by several architectural firms and that it was on these that the amount provided in the appropriations bill was based. Definite steps toward signing contracts will not be taken until after a conference with Governor Hardman, Mr. Thurmond said.

Among the improvements planned for the building are complete exterior renovation and repair as well as cleaning and painting. The basement of the building, originally planned to be a unit of the office space, but left uncompleted, is to be reclaimed and several new offices provided. This also will require extension of the interior stairways.

Acoustics in the chambers of the senate and house of representatives are to be perfected, it was said, the present construction of the legislative halls being such that speakers have difficulty in being heard. New electric wiring and plumbing systems are to be installed. It is also planned to install two modern elevators in place of the old type one now functioning.

Last renovating work on the capitol was done under the administration of Governor Walker. At that time the heating plant, electric transformers, and tower windows were installed. Reconstruction of the dome was the latest major improvement. All the former work was done under direction of the firm of Edwards and Savard, architects, of 101 Marietta Street building.

Three firms join in suit to test "MOVING DAY" LAW.

Suits making H. C. Zaban, of the Zaban Storage Company, the Walker Storage and Van Company, and Russell C. House plaintiffs in injunction proceedings against the City of Atlanta, Borough of Atlanta, and Atlanta instituted in an effort to void the three-day moving notice law were filed Monday in Fulton superior court. Suits were filed Saturday by the Cathcart Van and Storage Company and the John J. Woodside Storage Company.

The plaintiffs charge that the law requiring transfer firms to obtain a permit from the city clerk three days before moving household goods is unfair and discriminatory, and is unconstitutional. A temporary injunction has been issued against the city.

Dr. P. James Bryant, Pastor of Colored Baptist Church, Dies.

Funeral services for Dr. P. James Bryant, pastor of the Wheat Street Colored Baptist church, who died Sunday morning at his residence, 244 Young street, will be conducted at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the church he served for more than 30 years. Leaders of the negro race from all denominations will take part in the funeral program in tribute to Dr. Bryant's outstanding leadership.

He came to Atlanta and the Wheat Street church in 1898 from the Bethesda church, of Americus. During the first 20 years of his ministry his church membership was increased from a few hundred to more than 5,000. In the disastrous fire of 1917 his church was destroyed and the congregation was forced to move to a site at the corner of Auburn avenue and Young street.

He continued in his work despite this calamity and in 1926 had practically restored his church to its former position of influence. In that year, however, he suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered and which eventually was to claim his life.

Dr. Bryant was particularly well known for his work in the B. Y. U. movement and served for nearly 20 years as chairman of the B. Y. P. U. section of the Georgia conference and as chairman of the national B. Y. P. U. board.

Constipation and Biliousness Cause High Blood Pressure.

If Alertox Fails—Call a Doctor.

High blood pressure is both functional and organic, often produced by over-eating or mental strain, while constipation and biliousness are underlying causes. In either case, Alertox, a new chemical discovery, through a process of elimination, corrects all toxic conditions and tends to reduce pressure in the veins and arteries by carrying out, through the intestinal tract, excess water in the system which the sweat glands have failed to secrete.

After the first dose or two of Alertox you note a decided improvement in reduced blood pressure, also in your general health, because Alertox removes, in one action, the poisonous bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert. At all drug stores or sent direct upon receipt of price, 60c and $1. Alertox, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

GERMAN CANNON, CAPTURED IN W. R., TENDERED ATLANTA

City council is expected to accept with thanks a German cannon, a 10.5 Schurz, captured by the American expeditionary forces during the World War, and to order it placed on the site of the new $1,000,000 city hall now being completed at Washington and Mitchell streets. Council convenes Monday.

The gun was tendered the city officially Monday by Stanley A. Jones, lieutenant in charge of recruiting in Atlanta, by consent of the war department. In the event it is not located on the city hall site, it probably will be placed in one of Atlanta's numerous parks.

Memorial Completion Campaign Is Deferred Pending Litigation End

Three Women Asked To Withdraw From Suit and Have Court Injunctions Dismissed.

Active work in the proposed campaign by a citizens' committee to raise $150,000 for the completion of the central figure on Stone Mountain will be deferred pending the dismissal of injunctions filed against Fulton county and the city of Atlanta, restraining them from making contributions toward the Stone Mountain work, it was announced Monday following a meeting of the citizens' committee, of which N. Baxter Maddox is chairman.

These injunctions were brought by Mrs. Chancery Smith, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. J. S. Nichols and Mrs. Charles T. Phillips. Mrs. Phillips has withdrawn her name from the suits and the hope was expressed by the committee that the three other women who are parties will agree to dismissal of the injunction, in order that the completion of the monument be not impeded.

The citizens' committee, headed by Baxter Maddox, chairman, met at the Chamber of Commerce, Monday afternoon, Philip H. Alston, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, presided and explained the general situation.

It was the consensus of opinion that while this injunction is in force, it would be difficult to make any great headway in the work.

All Favor Work.

Every one of the business men attending the meeting was enthusiastically in favor of carrying on the campaign and completing the Stone Mountain carvings, but it was urged that all obstacles be cleared before active solicitations be begun.

"The sentiment in favor of completing this work, irrespective of all past controversies, is universal," said Mr. Alston. "That thought has been expressed by one prominent Atlanta business man who said: 'We must better have Lee, Jackson and Davis in effigy than to leave their statues in the present uncompleted condition. This is a task which Atlanta must undertake and carry out to convert a city's disgrace into a city's pride.'"

It was shown by President Alston that early in the year, the Chamber of Commerce had succeeded in composing the differences between the owners of Stone Mountain and the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, and had pledged its help in a movement to complete the three central figures by Augustus Lukeman within two years' time.

It was shown that a contract had been negotiated by the Venable family and the Stone Mountain Association, dated May 20, 1928, the eighth paragraph of which is as follows: "That parties hereto agree to dismiss all suits now pending between the parties hereto and to use their efforts to have all other suits and indictments concerning or growing out of the controversies heretofore existing between said parties or the carving of the monument on Stone Mountain, dismissed and withdrawn."

Letter to Women.

The citizens' committee found, however, that the suits brought by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Phillips, in Fulton county and the city of Atlanta, from contributing to the carving on the Lukeman, and the carvers, the Stone Mountain Granite Corporation, to make estimates over their signatures as to the amount required to complete the three central figures. Their letters follow:

Letter From Lukeman.

"Dear Mr. Maddox: In response to your request, we herewith furnish you an estimate of the cost of completing the equestrian figures of Jefferson Davis, General Lee and General Jackson on Stone Mountain. This estimate is based on our experience in the work already done, the amount of money that has been expended, and the progress that has been made."

"The carving of the Lukeman design was commenced in September, 1928. The operations continued until June, 1928, when they were suspended because of lack of funds."

"From the commencement to the suspension of operations, the total amount expended was $132,004.29. Of that amount, something over $23,000 was expended for equipment. Of the remainder, after deducting for equipment, approximately one-third of the money expended was expended in preliminary dressing down of the surface, so as to get rid of sap granite and get down to clean, virgin stone. This preliminary dressing down was absolutely necessary, and consumed about ten months of time."

"As closely as a work of this magnitude can be calculated, the time it will take to complete the three figures is estimated at approximately 15 to 20 months. Another important factor in what has been accomplished is that we have solved the engineering and sculptural problems that were inevitable in a pioneer and unprecedented work of this kind. We have passed the experimental stage."

"Therefore, we are in a position to estimate with full confidence how much additional money will be required to complete the work. We will take to finish Davis, Lee and Jackson."

"After making due allowance for unforeseen contingencies, and for possibly adverse conditions, our judgment is, and we so advise you and your committee, that the three figures can be finished for $125,000 as an outside maximum, and that the time required will not exceed twenty months. If weather conditions are good, we believe that time will be considerably shortened."

"Trusting that the above information will cover all points that may be of interest to you and your committee and the public, I am, with regards and best wishes."

Yours sincerely, (Signed) Augustus Lukeman, Sculptor.

Letter From Carvers.

"Dear Mr. Maddox: In compliance with the request of the Construction Committee of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial Association, asking for information as to the approximate cost of completing the figures of Davis, Lee and Jackson, after a survey of our records of past work, we find we consumed nineteen months and expended approximately $127,000 covering pay-rolls, equipment, and supplies, and in our judgment, which coincides with Mr. Lukeman's, who will accept the finish of details, etc., the three figures are approximately forty-five per cent completed."

"In consideration of our past experience, we estimate that the sum of approximately $150,000 will complete the three figures referred to in a period of twenty months."

"Very truly yours, Stone Mountain Granite Corporation by (Signed) Granite Weiblen, V. P."

Letter From Committee.

"Dear Mr. Maddox: At the request of yourself and Mr. Philip H. Alston, the construction committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, we have taken extreme measures here to end rioting which started last week, and from outlying regions, and have been able to cope with the situation in

Bodies of American Victims Mutilated by Arab Slayers

CUT OFF EARS AND NOSES OF FOES

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN.

Special Correspondent for The Constitution of the American Newspaper Alliance.

Jerusalem, Palestine, August 26.—(9:10 p. m.)—It is now certain that 12 American boys were killed in the Arab-Jewish riots which occurred here yesterday. Three more are reported slain and at least ten were severely wounded.

The only reason why the massacre of the Jews did not reach greater proportions is that the Arabs stopped to make sure those who fell would not rise again. They were not content with merely examining the fallen, they started to cutting off the ears and noses of their victims.

With more than 100—possibly 150—dead, including 12 Americans, and hundreds wounded, advice from Nablus, Tulkarm and Tel-Aviv reported a black and considerable loss of life. The agricultural regions in Galilee also were in constant danger and some of them had been raided by Arabs.

Shooting and looting continued today in the suburbs of Jerusalem. British troops were posted in the city and many troops were making their way to the city but the fighting was not over. A contingent of troops from Egypt had been sent to the city.

Two machine guns were posted in the station at Jaffa and British warships with many troops were making their way to the city but the fighting was not over. A contingent of troops from Egypt had been sent to the city.

Arabs set fire to a colony in South Palestine and attempted to burn synagogues at Hebron, where 12 Americans and 43 others were slaughtered Sunday in an Arab raid.

Clubs, knives and guns were used by the Arabs in fighting through the suburbs of Jerusalem yesterday and last night. Defending forces employed rifles and were backed up by machine guns, but the Arab snipers continued their activities.

Moslems attacked the Synagogue district, but were repulsed, as they were in several other places.

Civilians aided in the defense because of the shortage of police forces. Oxford students studying here were especially bold in turning back the raiders.

Shops Are Closed.

The fact that shops have been closed since the fighting started caused nervousness about the supply of food. As police began to gain control of the situation in Jerusalem there was a minor riot at a sanitarium in the suburb of Motza. Otherwise the situation here was coming under control except for intermittent shooting or looting.

British travelers arriving from Jaffa and Nablus reported that Arabs were stopping all automobiles and searching them for Jews. The situation at Jaffa was aggravated by attempts of Arabs to arrange a funeral procession which would move past the Jewish quarter.

Authorities here issued an order forbidding carrying of weapons, knives, bludgeons, crowbars or other clubs. All roads are under patrol of troops and incoming automobiles are searched for weapons. Military airplanes continued their patrol overhead. They are under command of Captain Playfair.

JEWISH COMPLAINT MAY GO TO STIMSON.

BY LYLE C. WILSON.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, August 26.—An effort may be made tomorrow to lay before Secretary of State Stimson Jewish complaints against the British administration of Palestine where communal riots over the week-end cost the lives of at least 12 American citizens.

Representatives of the New York Zionist organization are scheduled to arrive early tomorrow. They will confer among themselves, the United News was informed before seeing Stimson. Whether direct criticism of the British Palestine policy is to be made will be determined at the conference, it was said here tonight.

The policy of the United States government, the United News is informed, will be to ignore all racial and political phases of the Palestine situation while requesting adequate protection of American lives and property by Great Britain. A mandate governing Palestine was issued by the League of Nations to Great Britain, effective September 29, 1923.

Secretary of State Stimson today expressed satisfaction with the British efforts to restore order in Palestine. He said this government would look to Great Britain to protect American lives and property in the area. No comment was made upon the telegraphic request from Representative Celler, Democrat, New York, that the cruiser Raleigh, recently stationed in European waters, be sent to Palestine.

To Bring Pressure.

The preponderance of American investments in Palestine contributes to the delicacy of the situation in which President Hoover and Stimson will be placed if powerful Jewish organizations attempt through this government to bring pressure upon the British. During previous friction between Jewish and Arab populations, Jews have alleged Great Britain did not support Jewish rights with sufficient vigor. In this connection it was suggested the British were reluctant to antagonize millions of restless Moslem subjects, especially in India.

Stimson himself described today's instructions to Ambassador Dawes as extraordinary procedure. Paul Knabenshue, American consul at Palestine, requested British authorities for protection Saturday. Yesterday he was instructed by Stimson to emphasize the necessity for protection again. Upon receipt today of news that 12 Americans had been killed and several wounded, Stimson cabled Dawes "orally" to express to the British minister of foreign affairs the earnest hope of this government that immediate and comprehensive steps be taken for the restoration of order and the protection of the lives of American citizens.

Ask Business Men.

The Southern is ready for the fall enrollment, with bigger and better prospects than ever. It refers prospectively to the Southern, and when the investigation is made, it will be found that from 80 to 90 out of every hundred business men in their parts will recommend the Southern to the inquirer for a good school.

When the Educational Convention was in session here, many prominent teachers looked up the Southern and remarked, after looking through it, "You have a most wonderful business school." Among the visitors were the author of Greg Shorthand, the author of the Twentieth Century Bookkeeping, and others from the Educational Departments of the United States government, Washington, D. C.

Get catalog at once and send in your application just as soon as possible. The first fall term enrollment period will be from September 3 to 9, inclusive.

Build up Weight Quick with New IRONIZED YEAST—or Pay Nothing

"After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and had lost such so rapidly I became excited about my condition. I saw your advertisement of IRONIZED YEAST and decided to give it a trial. After 2 weeks I found strength returning, tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again. In 2 weeks more I had gained 10 lbs. and was my normal weight."—Rev. W. H. Taylor, D.D., Harrisburg, Pa.

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny," tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman that everybody admires. Thousands tell how IRONIZED YEAST has helped them. "Broomstick" limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blotched skin clears like magic.

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and 2 grains of blood-enriching IRON. The Yeast is Violet Rayed to increase weight-building values. IRON concentrates it so that 12 SACKS of raw YEAST make only 1/2 SACK of the concentrate which gives you such quick, EXTRA, weight-building results through this 24-to-1 concentration.

Only when YEAST is IRONIZED is it most effective; for blood-enriching IRON is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of YEAST. Pleasant tablets. No "yeasty" taste. No gas or bloating.

LET SUGAR MAKE YOUR FOODS

Delicious

Safeguard the health with adequate diets

AN EXAMINATION by health authorities of a million New York school children—not limited to the poorer families—disclosed that a little more than 17% were up to normal. More than 60% were on the border line of malnutrition, and 20% were in immediate need of a doctor's care. What a warning of tuberculosis and other diseases there is in this survey, if the children of the rest of the United States are comparable to those of New York City—and they are doubtless are.

Let mothers guard the health of the children of the land by regular meals of milk, fruits, vegetables and other nourishing foods. Encourage young people to eat by making the diet appetizing and attractive. Sprinkle a little sugar on the cereal. Make milk-shakes and milk desserts to encourage the taking of enough milk. Serve stewed fruits daily, mellowed and flavored with a little sugar.

If the children in your family do not relish cooked vegetables, this old secret, recently rediscovered, may help you. Four well-known women cooking experts came upon it during a series of experiments. Add a dash of sugar to each vegetable while it is cooking (preferably in little water). This does not make the vegetables taste sweet. It awakens the delicate vegetable flavors that are so delicious. It makes the vegetables fresher and more colorful.

For resistance to disease, for protection against feeble adulthood, feed growing children and young people regular, varied, enjoyable diets.

Scientific Seating and Noiseless Typewriters Installed at The Southern Business College For the Fall Term Opening on September 3 and 9

Enrollment For The Fall Term Begins At The Southern.

Make your reservation early if you are planning to begin a business course in September, because the indications now point to an unusually large enrollment at the Southern Shorthand and Business University for the fall session.

For years past a large majority of the young people throughout the southeast have been going to the Southern for their business training, and, consequently, in almost every business house of much importance in Atlanta, there will be found from one to twenty of the Southern's efficient, energetic, dependable graduates holding responsible and remunerative positions, and rapidly ascending the ladder of Business Success.

But, now, more than ever before, the young people of this section are making their way to this long-established, fully accredited, school of business training, because they know that it has long passed the experimental stage, being the pioneer in the field of commercial education in the southeast, and being in the very front ranks with the leading business colleges of the United States, they know that the Southern is a genuinely good school and becoming better all the time.

More Improvements.

Correct seated posture is absolutely essential to health, comfort, efficiency and advancement, therefore, always on the alert for improvement, the Southern has provided the More Seating equipment for its students.

In addition to the mental training given to the pupils, the Southern instructs them to sit properly, which enables them to do better work with a minimum of physical and mental fatigue.

Health Chairs.

That well-known Atlanta physician, Dr. J. R. Garvin, in an address at Minneapolis, said:

"It is not sufficient that a chair shall conform to the anatomical lines of its occupant, but if effectiveness is desired, it must be so constructed that it can be adjusted and fitted to the individual occupant with the same degree of accuracy that his shoes or clothing are fitted, and it must be so designed that without effort or thought upon the part of the worker, he will automatically assume and maintain a proper posture with a support at that portion of the spine where fatigue is first noted—the juncture of the dorsal and lumbar regions."

Noiseless Typewriters.

Away with the noise of the typewriting machine and let's do our transcribing quietly, peacefully and joyously.

And this will be another advantage to be enjoyed by the pupils of the Southern Business College. Noiseless typewriters are being installed this week.

Touch typewriting is taught at the Southern, and it is indeed an inspiring sight to the visitor to watch 50 typists operating machines in one room, 20 in another, sitting erect with their eyes kept constantly on their copies.

The business world's menace has been disturbing noises, which not only interfere with safe conduct of business, but, infrequently, wrecks the nerves of those in daily and constant association with mechanical devices causing such noises.

Always endeavoring to keep right up with the times, therefore, the Southern has added the noiseless typewriter, and will, in the future, be in position to send stenographers to places where the noiseless machines are used.

Prosperity Advances Hither.

Everyday, including even the pessimists, says that business conditions are improving and that prosperity is just around the corner. The farmers are reporting the best crops in years, and the merchants are looking for a gradual increase in their sales.

It behooves the young people of this section, therefore, to make preparation now to enter the business world, because the unprepared and the unfortunate ones who fail to secure the positions.

Free Assistance.

The Employment Department of the Southern is conducted in the interest of both the pupils and business firms and absolutely without cost to anyone, and, in order that the public may know to what extent this service is given, will state that a canvass of the business houses of Atlanta disclosed the astounding fact that there were more of the Southern's graduates holding positions in Atlanta than from all the other business schools and colleges in this city combined.

Remarkable, But True.

One of the Southern's busy teachers was correcting the pupils' exercises on the street car while going home, for it's work, work at the Southern, you know—and an observer was so particularly impressed with the neatness and accuracy of the typewriting as displayed among the papers, that he requested the teacher to send over to his office for temporary work a certain pupil whose exercises looked exceptionally well executed.

The pupil was sent and after only one day's try-out, doing "temporary work," the firm engaged the pupil for a permanent position at $75 per month as an initial salary.

Efficiency a Hobby.

Efficiency is really a hobby with the Southern. To train its pupils to become the most efficient stenographers and bookkeepers in this part of the country, is its greatest ambition, and it spares neither money nor pains in the accomplishment of this end.

An Accredited School.

The Southern has always tried to do good work, but it is compelled to

Paper Company Official Declines To Offer Office Memoranda in U. S. Court

Head Claims Material Irrelevant in Hall-Lavarre Operating Control Hearing—Judge To Inspect Papers.

Macon, Ga., August 26. (AP)—Request of attorneys for William LaVarre, for "inter-office memoranda" of the International Paper Company which LaVarre contended was relevant in Harold Hall's suit against him, was refused today by Neil C. Head, official of the paper company. Head said for equal operating control of four southeastern newspapers—The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, The Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal, and The Columbia (S. C.) Record—and LaVarre answered that Hall was his employee, and not his partner. Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver today ruled he would have to see such memoranda in private before ruling on its admissibility, and arranged a conference among counsel to that end. The question was raised by the defense after Head testified there was inter-office memoranda in possession of his counsel which had not been turned over to the defense on their subpoena of company files in New York recently. Head's attorneys held that LaVarre's suit against the paper company gave them inadequate cause to turn over memoranda along with correspondence which was produced. The defense insisted it was relevant, and the court ruled for the defense. It will be held in "private when convenient."

Head also was asked if he could identify a memorandum of a proposed contract between the paper company and Hall and LaVarre, and he told defense counsel he could not. The document was similar in some respects to one identified by Head Saturday as submitted by Hall's counsel. In that "proposed working arrangement" "bankers," meaning the paper company, had the right to acquire all stock in newspapers of "managers," meaning Hall and LaVarre, at the end of 10 years, and stipulated a salary of $15,000 a year apiece for the managers.

Refinancing Provided. The proposed contract today was different in several respects, particularly in that it gave the right to "publishers" instead of "managers," to arrange for refinancing of a proposed holding company after two years. Also no salary for "publishers" was stipulated.

Under cross-examination Head said the company became financially interested in newspapers as a market for newsprint and for the return on an investment. He admitted that of the company's book values of $219,000,000 were in power, and $198,000,000 in paper. He denied that the company needed no further newsprint markets, added under questioning, that the markets were needed for a mill which would soon be ready for operation when the newspaper deals were made, but present full capacity was already taken.

The point of controlling interest in the papers was raised by defense questions, to which Head replied that contracts were never signed with Hall and LaVarre because the company did not wish to be placed in the position of controlling the policy of newspapers.

Shown a memorandum of the company, which he identified as such, which had the phrase "newspaper being bought through Hall and LaVarre," Head said the language was "inaccurate" and "inexact."

The $570,000 demand note signed by Hall and LaVarre and a letter written by LaVarre to the paper company were recognized by the company, Head said, as the only actual agreement between the company and the men. He qualified his statement, however, with the emphatic declaration that the company did not consider that agreement as final, in fact, that it was held to be a temporary arrangement until a permanent agreement could be drawn up.

Final Arbitrator. Head said LaVarre had approached him with a suggestion that the demand note be changed to a 30-day or a six-month note, and that he had informed LaVarre that it "couldn't be done."

"Did you interpret LaVarre's language as indicating that he had agreed that the International Paper Company was the final arbitrator of that note?" Head was asked, and he replied: "Yes, legally."

Head testified that the company had previously decided as a matter of policy not to be placed in the position of controlling newspapers, and answered point-blank that the company did not intend to control the Hall-LaVarre papers and that question was what held up the framing on an actual agreement.

"Pressed as to why the paper company had cloaked with secrecy its dealings with newspaper financing to the extent of $10,000,000 the witness said it was a matter of business secrecy, and in the case of Hall and LaVarre the two had requested secrecy. He added that the dealings would have been made public probably if Hall and LaVarre had requested publicity.

The defense, recalling that LaVarre had not delivered the stock of the four newspapers acquired during his and Hall's trips to the southeast, asked Head if the paper company could have "controlled" the editorial policy of those papers if LaVarre had delivered the stock.

"I'm not so sure," Head replied. The witness admitted that the paper company held the stock transfer powers of the four newspapers concerned in their New York offices, and at that point adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning. Head had been on the stand a day and a half.

Head also was questioned as to what capacity Hall and LaVarre assumed from the company's standpoint. His answer that the company dealt with them "jointly as partners" drew an immediate objection from the defense, and the objection was sustained by Judge Deaver.

Later Head said he did not regard Hall and LaVarre as agents, but as "borrowers" and the remuneration they received was not salary, but so-called.

The witness said in answer to direct question that President A. H. Granstein, of the paper company, would not be here as a witness in this trial.

Two Are Held Liable For Notes Settling Burglary Charges

The Georgia court of appeals Monday held that Arto Hill and Jim Hill are liable on six notes aggregating $150,000, executed by them to Mark Jones in settlement of a burglary charge made by Jones against Arto Hill.

The case, tried in Brantley superior court at the November term of 1927, at which time the defendants claimed the notes were illegal for the reason that they were given to obviate false charges against Arto Hill, resulted in a verdict in favor of Jones. The Hills asked for a new trial, which was denied by the lower court and the case was taken to the appellate court. Today's decision confirms the lower tribunal.

In presenting their claim of illegality of the debt, the defendants set out that a storehouse belonging to Jones was entered and robbed and that Arto Hill was falsely charged with the crime. Jim Hill, father or Arto, became co-signer of the notes, their answer said, in order to prevent prosecution of his son. The defendant also contended that Jones was guilty of compounding a felony, by his acceptance of the notes.

In ruling, the court said, "the transaction did not amount to a compounding of a felony" and "there was no error in overruling the motion for new trial."

FAIRWAYS CLEARED OF STUMPS AT NEW BOBBY JONES LINKS

A steam shovel now in use at the John A. White golf course will be moved to the Bobby Jones golf course, in the Peachtree Creek section, within the next 10 days, as soon as the grading work is finished at the White course, it was said Monday at the county public works office.

Fairways at the Jones course have been cleared of timber and stumps and the county forces, numbering approximately 40 men, are at work on the greens. The county is grading the landscape along the creek. The work at the Jones course will be finished early next year, it was said.

Atlanta Company Joins National Plumbing Chain

Announcement was made in Atlanta Monday of the association of the Farrell Heating and Plumbing Company of this city with the Wells-Newton National Corporation chain of plumbing, heating, ventilating and fire-prevention companies.

In joining the Wells-Newton Corporation the Farrell Company will continue to operate as heretofore, under the direction of Daniel A. Farrell, who has for many years been one of Atlanta's most prominent business men. In addition to continuing as head of the Farrell company division of the Wells-Newton Corporation he has been named as general vice president in charge of all the business of the corporation in a large group of states in the southeast.

The announcement, which was made yesterday by Mr. Farrell and L. L. Harr, vice president and chairman of the executive and financial committees composed of the Wells-Newton Corporation, means that Atlanta has secured divisional headquarters for another of the great national business chains.

The Wells-Newton company has been in existence for more than a third of a century. Its chain of associated companies is composed of 42 large plumbing companies, covering the country. Large cities in every section of the nation are represented in the chain. On its list of officers and executives are some of the best-known business men of the nation. The company has current and working assets of nearly $5,000,000, while its net earnings for 1928 amounted to $837,000.

The Wells-Newton company in associating with it the nation-wide chain of stores, which forms the Wells-Newton National Corporation, left the management and control of the various concerns in the hands of the owners of the individual companies comprising the consolidation and who have been responsible for their successes. Each of these associated companies comprise a separate division of the Wells-Newton corporation and the head of each division becomes a director or officer of the parent company. Without exception, these men are business men of high standing in their respective communities and outstanding leaders in the plumbing industry.

In discussing the benefits to be derived by this territory from the association of the Farrell company with the Wells-Newton National Corporation, Mr. Harr said:

"Through this combination, purchasers of plumbing materials of all kinds in the south will be able in future to buy through the Farrell Heating and Plumbing Company, division of the Wells-Newton corporation, materials at a decided reduction on what they have been paying up to this time. The vast purchasing power of the 42 outstanding plumbing material companies who are associated with the Wells-Newton company, makes it possible for us to eliminate the middle man and to deduct profit of the broker from the price we quote to the purchaser. Through our companies, therefore, it is possible to buy better and finer materials for the same price that it has been necessary to pay heretofore for materials not so good.

"It is not generally known that the plumbing business is one of the largest basic industries in the United States. When it is borne in mind, for instance, that of the 22,000,000 homes in America, 76 per cent have no plumbing and that of the more than 100,000 hotels in the eastern section of the country, there is an average of one bath to four rooms, an idea can be gained of the vast future ahead of our industry.

"We have long had our eyes on Atlanta as one of our regional points. Realizing its general situation as a distributing point for the entire south and knowing the distinction which is gained by any company that has its southern headquarters here, I am frank to confess we are overjoyed at the final transaction which has brought us to this city.

"We are especially delighted that Mr. Farrell, whose reputation is nationwide as a business man of outstanding caliber, has come into our chain and will continue not only to operate the business which he has conducted successfully for many years, but has become a vice president of our corporation in charge of our business in the entire south."

On a plea of guilty to three indictments, Rufus T. Sanders was sentenced to serve a total of three years at the state prison farm when he appeared Monday before Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court.

Sanders pleaded guilty to assaults with intent to murder Miss Grace Majors, of 1950 Boulevard drive, N. E., and robbed Mrs. L. S. Cunningham, of 981 Oak, S. W., of a purse and $20.

The state charged that Sanders escorted Miss Majors, a school-teacher, from the Terminal station to a local boarding house, and then robbed her after choking and beating her. Sanders was charged with snatching Mrs. Cunningham's purse.

FOUR ZONE CHANGES VOTED BY COMMISSION

Action Deferred on Four Other Petitions and One Is Denied.

Approving four petitions for zone changes in Atlanta, deferring action on four others and declining to recommend one the city planning commission at its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday afternoon handled one of the largest day's business in recent weeks.

Approved petitions were to change from apartment to business zoning property at Boulevard and North avenue; from dwelling house to business a site at Vine and Spencer streets; 14th and Center streets and 281-83 Sidney street.

Action was deferred on the following petitions:

1197 Fair street, S. E., from residential to business; north side of Eighth street 200 feet east of Argonne avenue from residential to apartment; south side of Eighth street 160 feet east of Argonne; south side of Ninth street 200 feet east of Argonne avenue.

The commission declined to recommend re-zoning of Fair street and Second avenue from residential to business.

James R. Nutting and Claude Barnwell, Atlanta businessmen, named to the commission to succeed J. H. Ewing and Frank Pittman, resigned, sat on the board for the first time at Monday's session.

1929 TOBACCO CROP GREATEST IN GEORGIA

Ninety Million Pounds of Weed Sold for $16,662,662, at 18.38 Average.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The state department of agriculture Monday reported that Georgia farmers had received $16,662,662 through the fifth week of the bright tobacco market for 60,654,245 pounds of the weed, the greatest crop on record for the state in both tonnage and value.

The average price thus far for the season was reported at 18.38 cents.

The totals for the past week were shown at 3,721,780 pounds, selling for $68,549.73, an average price of 9.35 cents.

The totals for the season to date exceed those of the corresponding period of 1928 more than 5,000,000 pounds and nearly $9,000,000 in value.

The average price for the first five weeks of 1928 was 12.81 cents.

Vidalia ran ahead of other markets last week in the matter of tonnage, with four warehouses reporting 1,259,336 pounds sold for $123,374.25, an average of 9.80 cents. Tifton paid the highest average price, three warehouses there reporting 195,286 pounds sold for $22,769, an average of 11.66 cents.

All markets were closed with Saturday's business, except Metter, where three warehouses will remain open until Wednesday to take care of low grades and scrap from other markets.

Fifth week sales, by markets, was reported by the department as follows:

FATHER AND SON HELD UNDER BOND ON PROHIBITION CHARGE

E. Parker, and his son, Roy, with Leroy Glass, a negro, were given preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner Griffith Monday on charges of violating the prohibition laws, government agents testifying that a still had been found in the same house with the trio on Howell Mill road Saturday afternoon.

Judge Griffith spoke to the elder Parker at some length on the undesirability of leading a son into the liquor business. His bond was assessed at $1,000 while that of his son and Glass was placed at $500 each.

PIPE LINE TO START

Materials Arrive for Natural Gas Mains.

Work on laying the gas main which will bring to Atlanta and suburban communities their supply of natural gas is expected to get under way within 10 days, it was announced Monday by R. C. Hoffman, vice president of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, following arrival at East Point of several carloads of 20-inch pipe. Other materials are expected soon.

MISS EMILY WOODWARD DINNER HONOR GUEST

Retiring Press Association President Tendered Dinner by The Constitution.

Miss Emily Woodward, retiring president of the Georgia Weekly Press Association, was guest of honor at a dinner and informal reception Monday night given by The Constitution at the Capital City Club.

The guests comprised about 70 of the members of the press association whose journey to the annual convention of the association at Toccoa carried them through Atlanta.

A pleasant evening at the club was enjoyed by the guests and the occasion was marked by the many complimentary remarks concerning the manner in which Miss Woodward, during the past two terms, has conducted the affairs of the association.

At today's meeting of the association at Toccoa, the first vice-president, Louie Morris, of Hartwell, will succeed Miss Woodward as president, she declining to serve for another term.

COCA-COLA SHOWS EARNINGS INCREASE IN LAST QUARTER

Earnings of the Coca-Cola Company and its subsidiaries during the second quarter of 1929 totaled $3,937,334.05, an increase of $707,404.98 over the same period last year, and brought the total for the first six months of the year to $6,491,961.77, which is a gain of $1,124,121.83 over the corresponding figures for 1928, it was announced Monday following the regular quarterly director's meeting.

The directors declared the usual dividend of $1 a share on the common stock payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 1.

The figures given out represent net income before federal income taxes. Statement for the second quarter of the current year lists gross receipts (sales billed) as $11,591,716.50 and manufacturing and general expenses as $8,774,785.32, giving an operating profit of $4,817,440.58. From this was deducted $880,006.53 under the head of "miscellaneous," leaving the net income for the period at $3,937,334.05.

The recently published annual report for 1928 revealed one of the most successful years of operation in the history of the company, listing a net profit before income taxes of $11,789,120.71. Profits for the first half of 1929 were greatly in excess of half this amount.

SOUTH BOULEVARD BODY IN ANNUAL MEETING TONIGHT

The eighth annual meeting and election of officers of the South Boulevard Improvement Association will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the home of J. E. Jackson, of 507 Atlanta avenue, S. E.

This association claims the distinction of being the oldest civic organization in the city and, since its foundation in 1921, improvements secured for its section run well into the millions of dollars. At the annual meeting plans for the coming year's activities will be discussed.

RABBIT AND CAVY BREEDERS MEET TO TALK SHOP

The Atlanta Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Club held its semi-monthly meeting Monday night in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel with an unusual large attendance. The club was organized some time ago in the interest of domestic rabbit raising for meat and fur and now has more than one hundred active members.

Talks of benefit to beginners were given by B. H. Bellinger, A. H. Leinhardt and J. H. Cash. B. N. Anderson, president, said that extensive plans are being made for the largest exhibit of domestic rabbits ever shown in the southeast at the Southeastern Fair in October.

Can't Be Near Drink Without Knowing It, Judge Contends

Jack Plant was hailed before United States Commissioner Griffith Monday by prohibition agents who stated that they had found him in close proximity to a gallon of whisky. "You look like a truthful man," said Judge Griffith. "Tell me about this whisky."

"I don't know anything about it, judge," was the reply. "That's bad," was the judge's comment. "You can't tell me you were that close to a gallon of whisky without knowing it. Your bond is $300."

NEW YORK, August 26.—(AP)—New

Yorkness over weather conditions in the southwest and uncertainty as to the showing of the approaching end of the month crop was reflected by a comparatively quiet and irregular cotton market today. After selling up to 18.90 at the start, December contracts reacted to 18.75 but recovered part of the loss and closed at 18.76. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 2.8 to 18.76.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 12 points in response to steady Liverpool cables and reports of continued dry weather in the southwest. October sold up to 18.61 and March to 19.17 on the initial demand, but these prices attracted considerable realizing, while there was also some southern selling and local selling on the hope of showers in the southwest. The pressure was sufficient to send prices off to about 18.42 for October and 19.02 for March contracts during the middle of the morning, or about 5 to 9 points below Saturday's closing quotations.

The official weather details showed that the showers reported in Texas over the week-end had been chiefly in east central or coast districts, however, and their failure to indicate any relief for the droughty sections of Texas and Oklahoma in another list of the bureau during the afternoon. This was supplied by further realizing or liquidation and the market was comparatively quiet later with fluctuations narrow.

Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest on the month positions. The official forecast failed to encourage the hope of showers in west Texas, and there was evident considerable nervousness over weather conditions in that section with a feeling in some quarters that the showing of the next government crop report scheduled for publication on September 9 might depend to some extent upon whether or not droughty conditions in the southwest were relieved before the end of this week.

Cable advices reported that hedging and liquidation had been active by trade calling and covering in the Liverpool market. Port receipts today, 27,404. United States port stocks, 575,528. Exports, 5,961, making 169,618 for this season.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET DULL.

NEW ORLEANS, August 26.—(AP)—Cotton prices fluctuated aimlessly today without definite trend. An early advance met hedging and selling by traders on margin indications of rain in the drought section, but prices declined from 18.84 to 18.69 and closed at 18.70, or 5 points net down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 6 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady, but local traders evidently ignored the course of the English market and initial trades here were unchanged. Moderate to heavy rain fell here, however, in sympathy with a higher opening in New York and the continued absence of rains in the western belt. Moderate to heavy rain fell here, however, in sympathy with a higher opening in New York and the continued absence of rains in the western belt.

October sold up to 18.55 and December 18.84, or nine points above Saturday's close.

Demand appeared to be supplied at the advance and hedge and liquidation in the market. This was reinforced later by selling on what was believed to be margin indications of rain in the drought section, but prices declined from 18.84 to 18.69 and closed at 18.70, or 5 points net down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 6 points.

Border on Raids, Advices
State.

Harbin, Manchuria, August 26.—(United News).—Chinese advices from the Manchurian frontier today indicated that the Russian "offen-

Soviet patrols are constantly crossing the border line on raids, the address of the United Nations said. It arrived on the frontier shortly, the Chinese commanders plan to draft all youths over 17 to strengthen the frontier forces.

The defending Chinese patrols are now outnumbered by three to one due to the large number of Han Russian forces, it was said. Chinese troops, however, have been reported moving towards the frontier constantly in the last few days.

Four soviet and three Mongolian spies were arrested near Hallar, on the western border, and extradited to China. The killing and the Mongolian uprising and the slaughter of 100 Chinese by the rebels have not occurred since the Han Russian mass meeting at Hallar held to organize assisting forces to preserve order in the border scene.

The Muzul uprising, Chinese charged that "red" organizers are back of the uprising. White Russian, or czarist, organizations have been active along the border in detecting spies. They also have supplanted some of the soviet railroad workers who were deported or quit work.

Junior Hadassah of Atlanta will give a dance Wednesday, August 28, at Idlewood. Miss Rose Schreiber is ticket chairman and tickets are $1 a couple and may be secured by calling Miss Schreiber at Main 4068.

West End Civic Club To Stage Playlet.

When the "Marriage of Jack and Jill" is produced this evening at the Wrens Nest, under the auspices of the Civic Club of West End, the little guests will be ushered in to the music of "The Wedding of the Painted Doll." The St. Paul Epworth League orchestra, conducted by Prof. L. R. Kroboth, from St. Paul Methodist school, will render a number of selections.

Besides the characters from Mother Goose featuring this affair there will be a number of special songs and dances by some of the most talented children in the city. A duet, song and dance, "Button Up Your Overcoat," will be given by Gloria Matthews and Evelyn Oglesby, light, airy and musical. Another catchy duet is the song and dance, "Down Among the Sugar Cane," by Sara Guiffreda and Evelyn Oglesby, and reminiscent of old Spain is the solo dance, "La Poloma," by Hazel Ward, while typical of Holland, the tulip and windmill country, will be the "Dutch Treat" by Hazel Ward and Margaret Echols. These children, with the exception of the last two named, are pupils of Miss Jane Boyd, and much credit is due Miss Katherine Roberts, assistant to Miss Boyd, who has them in charge. Miss Ward and Miss Echols are pupils of Mr. E. G. Gilbert. Another feature of the program will be the songs by little Bessie Dunn and Leola Vaughn, Jr., who will render a solo.

The production is arranged and staged by Mrs. E. G. Gilbert, teacher of expression and dancing, and professional coach. Mrs. J. R. Montgomery is her executive assistant.

Miss Coombs And Mr. Heyward Wed Sept. 17

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hargett Coombs, formerly of Atlanta, Tifton and Bainbridge, but now of Charleston, S. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Cornelia Smith, to Irvine Keith Heyward, Jr., of Charleston, S. C., the marriage to be solemnized in St. Michael's Episcopal church in Charleston, Tuesday, September 17.

The prominence of Miss Coombs and Mr. Heyward in southern society make the above announcement carry social importance, and their wedding, taking place in historic St. Michael's church, will be witnessed by an aristocratic assemblage of relatives and friends. The lovely bride-elect's father was reared in Atlanta and is past president of Georgia State Elks. He is engaged at present in the lumber business in Charleston, S. C. The groom-to-be belongs to one of the most outstanding and most representative families in South Carolina.

Wedding of 1849 Contrasted With That of Present Day

BY MISS EMMA HARRISON.
East Point, Ga., August 26.—Yesterday I listened to a bride as she told of her wonderful bridal tour and of how they had motored through great cities, filled with skyscrapers; how they had gone almost to the top of the Woolworth building in New York city, and of their travels through the cool mountains and of the grand hotels—but I was thinking of another wedding just then—that of my parents—Sarah E. Miles and John C. Harrison, which was solemnized May 5, 1849, at 11 o'clock on a Sunday morning 80 years ago.

No Society Column.
There were no society columns then to herald the announcement months before the wedding occurred. It was kept a profound secret from the public, to within a few hours of the wedding ceremony. The day before the marriage took place, father mounted his mule and rode all over the countryside, inviting the guests, and they came from far and near, some in their two-horse wagons, some in high-wheeled buggies and others came on horseback.

In those days there were no long winding stairways for the bride party to descend, no wedding music to herald the coming of the bride; and no flower girls to scatter roses on their pathway. The guests arrived a good hour before time for the sacred rites, and sat in the large room, with the bride and groom-elect. When the minute for the marriage arrived the circuit rider, dressed in his long ministerial black coat, arose and said: "John, you and Sarah may stand up," and the solemn rite was read which made them man and wife.

Wore White Swiss.
Mother wore a dainty dress of white Swiss, made with many ruffles and frills, which stood out beautifully over her hoopskirt and the bodice clung tightly to her girlish wasp-like waist. Mother was not quite 16 years old, but she was then a wife, and her dress trailed on the floor. Her dress had been made several weeks prior to her marriage and had been laid away in the large wooden chest, with little bits of dried sweet shrubs tucked among the ruffles and frills to give it a delicate scent of spring. Mother held a bunch of woodland violets in her hand that father had gathered in the early morning, her hat was woven from bleached wheat straw, was fashioned into a frock—almost a bonnet—and was trimmed and lined with white Swiss with a narrow fringe of the same material around the brim. Father wore a gray home-woven suit and his long black coat reached almost to his knees. His necktie, frock and long when tied, had a flowing effect. His shoes were home-made and shined to a high polish with old-fashioned blacking, and he wore a huge black wooden hat. But what mattered; they were just as happy as the bride and groom of today.

Wedding Feast.

Then came the wedding feast. The long table was set in the front yard under the spreading branches of stately oaks. There were all kinds of meats, cakes and pies in the center of the table was a large platter and on it reposed a laked pig with a red apple in his mouth, and at each end of this platter smaller ones were filled with chicken pie. Two young negro women, dressed in clean, home-woven dresses, vied with each other in waiting on the guests at the table. Mother said only one mishap occurred—father spilled his coffee. After dinner all drank toasts of May apple to the bride and groom. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon father led his mule to the mounting block, mounted the mule, with mother mounted behind him, and they left on their wedding tour, some five miles away, to the little home father had built and crudely furnished for his girl bride.

Which are the happiest brides, those of today or those of yesterday?

Park Pageants, Spoiled by Rain, To Be Held Today

The folk dances and pageants, scheduled as headline attractions on the program for closing of the 1929 playground season at Grant park on last Saturday and which were rained out, will be given at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Grant park, according to Chairman John A. White of the park committee of city council.

Under an order of the committee sent out Monday school children will have one more opportunity to take a dip before entering school. The committee authorized that the swimming pools at city parks re-opening on September 2, 1929, Sunday night, September 8. City schools open the following day.

Adventists Plan Drive to Combat Use of Tobacco.
Among the hundreds of delegates at the Georgia camp-meeting of Seventh Day Adventists, at Whiteford avenue and Boulevard drive, not one uses tobacco. Realizing, they say, the seriousness of the present tobacco situation and the "ill effect this habit will have upon the future mothers of the land," the Georgia conference at a rally meeting Monday afternoon, launched a drive to offset the use of tobacco.

Prominent speakers who took part in the rally were Bishop W. H. Heck, Jr., of Chattanooga, president of the Southeastern Union; Professor F. R. Isaac, educational secretary; Pastor N. H. Conway, field secretary, both of the same union; Dr. B. E. Kneeland, president of the Georgia conference, and Professor Arcia Dart, educational secretary of the local conference.

Dr. H. F. Taylor, of Macon, delivered a stereoscopic lecture at 7:45 o'clock Monday night at the city auditorium on astronomy.

DRIVEN TO HOLDUP BY HUNGER, YOUTH FOILED BY VICTIM

Following his abortive attempt to hold up an L. W. Rogers grocery store at 1005 Capitol avenue Monday afternoon, James K. Logan, 20-year-old youth of "no address" last Monday was bound over to higher courts under $1,500 bond by Recorder M. M. Holloway.

Police stated that Logan admitted walking into the grocery store and going up to the cashier's cage, where he pointed a gun at J. D. Sutton, the manager, and demanded that he "stick 'em up." Unimpressed by Logan's manner, Sutton jumped from behind his counter and wrested the pistol from the youth's hand.

Logan turned and ran through the door but his escape was frustrated by J. R. Shaw, of 947 Georgia street, who halted the youth and held him until Sutton arrived with the gun. At headquarters Logan blamed hunger for his act, claiming that he had been without food ever since he arrived in Atlanta last Friday. He had been looking for work, he said, and when he could find none today was made desperate and prompted to try the holdup.

MEMORIAL SOUGHT BY PIPE SMOKERS TO FIRE HORSES

The Grand Lodge of the National Order of Pipe Smokers has petitioned the mayor and council to permit it to erect a memorial tablet to the fire horses and that it be given space near the new city hall.

Dr. Horace Grant, president of the order, thinks this should be done to remind future generations of the animals who did so much to save lives and property before the automobile came into existence.

If permission is granted Dr. Grant will appoint the following members of the order to meet with council members to select the site and to work out the inscription to be placed on the tablet: Judge E. D. Thomas, R. S. Barker, Robert L. Conner, W. S. Richardson, Eugene Oberdorfer, Sr., and Ed L. Humphries.

W. T. WHITLOCK WINS TWO BELLS ESSAY CONTEST

W. T. Whitlock, of 721 Juniper street, N. E., won first prize in the Georgia Power Company's Two Bells traffic essay contest with a composition in which he proposed elimination of parking in a large downtown area, a system of one-way traffic streets and increased stringency in enforcing existing traffic regulations, power company officials announced Monday. The award was $25.

The essay selected as second best in answering the question: "How Would You Solve Atlanta's Traffic Problem?" was submitted by Justin Kilian, 1552 South Gordon street, S. W., who was $15. Arnold G. Kennedy, 285 Hunnicutt street, N. W., awarded $10 as winner of the third prize.

The five best essays, awarded $5 each, were selected from contestants Rosalind Stenhouse, 1122 Rosedale drive, N. E.; C. R. Holston, 745 Cascade avenue, S. W.; Miss Elsie O. Prida, 715 Grant street, S. E.; Aaron L. Ross, 883 Cherokee avenue, and Thomas E. Cornell, of the Cornell-Smith Printing Company.

More than 250 persons submitted essays. Acting judges were Fire Chief Cody, Traffic Lieutenant Malcolm and George Deibert, of the Atlanta Safety Council.

Brides-Elect Are Entertained At Parties at Fort McPherson

Fort McPherson, August 26.—Social activities at the garrison continue to revolve around the two brides-elect of the fall, Misses Catherine Foster and Katherine Ripley. Monday Mrs. Roland Gaugler was hostess at a morning bridge followed by a luncheon and handkerchief shower at her quarters in the post.

The guests were seated at one long table and several small tables. The honor guests, Miss Ripley and Miss Foster, were seated at the ends of the long table which had for its central decoration a bride in miniature, attended by two diminutive flower girls. The bride was attired in a white satin dress with a court train and her long veil was arranged cap fashion with real lace and orange blossoms while the flower girls wore frocks made with full skirts and tight bodices, one in pink and the other in blue. The aisle was marked by four tall silver candlesticks fastened together with white satin ribbon.

A number of handkerchiefs in cotton and linen were presented the honor guests by the guests while Mrs. Gaugler gave handkerchiefs to the honor guests. Miss Ripley's gift was of white satin trimmed with a ribbon knot interwoven with orange blossoms while Miss Foster's was of pink satin with an old-fashioned girl in a lace bonnet frock painted on the cover. The first prize for contract bridge was won by Mrs. Sidney Storey, and the first for auction bridge was won by Mrs. Roscoe Hearn, and the consolation, by Mrs. Katherine Smith. The guests included a number of the military social set.

Tuesday afternoon Miss Helen Bach the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Stewart, at her home on Peachtree street.

SYNOPSIS.
Captain Bertram, who comes to the London residence of James Malton, well-known amateur aviator of the air, has been lost at sea. It is obvious that Bertram later has died and has been blackmailed into his service. Malton declares that since they are in such urgent need of another pilot they will rescue Douglas Harris, a famous one now in prison.

INSTALLMENT II. ESCAPE.

At 2 o'clock on a breathless afternoon the gates of Dartmoor prison clanged behind a working party of convicts. Pushing a handcart containing their tools, they trudged slowly along the road in the merciless sun. Now and again one of them would glance at a passing party of pleasure seekers, but most of them kept their eyes on the ground as though they preferred to see nothing.

A furniture van rumbled past. A few hundred yards along the road, and then at a word from the senior warden they turned left through a fringe of woodland to a quarry, whereupon the gang listlessly dispersed into pairs, and, each in its own way, of an armed warden, resumed their work.

"Now, then, 271. I'm watching you."

It was the harsh voice of Warden Spileman, whose bark notoriously was worse than his bite.

Convict 271 took no notice. He alone had no work to do. He was resting on his pick, and continued to rest. The sensitive hands that had helped build up his reputation as an aviator were limp and listless with the unaccustomed toil. The once straight back stooped now, and the trim, athletic figure had coarsened. Now and again the shoulders would twitch as if from some nervous affection.

With a quick convulsive movement he caught up the pick and for a moment stood poised on tiptoe. "O, you fool, you fool! You're going mad. You will really commit murder. Keep hold of yourself," he muttered. "If you hear? Keep hold of yourself. Your nerve is going."

It was nerves that had driven him out of the star class and degraded him to the laboring gang. He had picked up an offending warden like a baby, held him upside down for a moment, and then set him, unharmed, on his feet.

"I nearly killed Spileman then. He probably has a wife and children. I've sunk pretty low. A pity I couldn't kill myself with this pick." He again and again the pick fell, jarring the sensitive muscles. He had been working for three weeks on a tiny section of the road. Doubtless he would work at that same tiny section for weeks more, months, years.

Something on the stone caught his eye, near the spot where his pick had last struck. It was a small tobacco tin. Instantly in a hot rush came the craving for tobacco. For half an hour he worked steadily, his eye never leaving the tobacco tin. Then he judged it safe to make the attempt to pick it up. He stooped slowly. If Warden Spileman noticed, he said nothing.

That evening in the cell he opened the tin. To such an extent had his nerve been shattered that he burst into hysterical tears when he found that the box contained nothing but a roll of paper. One side of it was typewritten. The first word that caught his eye was the name under which he was known as a brilliant aviator.

"Dear Mr. Harris," he read. "To-day as you were leaving the prison you may have noticed a furniture van bearing the name of the well known firm of Hartock. Did you also notice a special handrail fitted on the near side? That has been put there for your special benefit. Grab it when it passes you at the same time tomorrow—and leave the rest to us."

"As this letter may well fall into the hands of the authorities, it would be futile for me to sign it. The fact that you are reading this letter should prove to you that we are not without measures. Grab that rail tomorrow—and you will be a free man."

A hoax, of course, he told himself, as he carefully tore the letter into a thousand pieces.

A pretty heartless hoax, for it had set him thinking vividly of freedom—and that way lay madness. If he were free—only for a day or two—he might contrive to see Cecily. Cecily was a part of the life that was blotted over the life that had been blotted out of existence by Cora Seton.

At that moment he could see Cora Seton, as if with his physical eye, standing in the witness box, giving her deadly, perjured evidence against him. He remembered the infinite hatred in the smile she had given him. And the court, moved by her strange ethereal beauty, had thought she smiled in pity.

Cecily—Cora. In these two words lay the history of his tragedy. If he had not been so much in love with Cecily he might not have been so disgusted with Cora. He might, at least, have refused her favors more gently. It was on the day he had won the Tressan trophy at Southampton. It was a dangerous task—and before he went up he had decided he would write to Cecily. He remembered every word of the letter.

"Dearest Cecily. In a couple of days I am off to Africa, and shall not be back again, as you know, for some months. Before I go I wish to tell you a secret—as a preliminary to something else which you will find at the end of the letter. You know me as Douglas Hartock, an obscure country peer who has never actually taken his seat in the house of lords. I am something else, Cecily. I am Douglas Harris—I felt rather a pig when you were raving about him the other day. Yes, I really can manage an airplane quite nicely, thank you."

"There is nothing really lurid in this 'double life' of mine. Briefly, I had a row with the dear old governor while I was at Oxford. I came 'down,' then after a bit of training got employment with an aviation company, taking the name of my 'scout,' which chanced to be Harris. Then I happened to do one or two stunts that got into the papers. The crowd of such made it up long before he died, thank goodness. I told him what I had been doing, and the dear old boy was frightfully pleased. But he made me promise not to tell my mother—because you know, my brother Dennis was killed flying—and so we decided to stick to 'Harris' and treat it as a dark secret. I don't think any of my mother's—except you. And the reason I'm telling you is—"

Convict 271 turned on his bed as fresh memories awoke. He had stopped writing, he remembered, in the middle of a sentence. Groping for the right words in which to tell her of his love. And then he suddenly been wanted at the air-drome—and the letter had been unfinished. After he had won the trophy there had been a boisterous, merry evening in the course of which he had found himself with Cora Seton.

She was, he supposed, a wealthy, idle woman—one of the crowd of such women who always haunt an air-drome. He had taken her up once, and thereafter she had perpetually sought his society. He had struggled as long as he could against the conviction that she was in love with him. Finally, on that fatal night, it was she herself who made any further doubt on the point impossible.

"I'm frightfully sorry," he had faltered. "But, you see, I already—"

"O, I guessed you had some simpering miss in the background you'll marry some day. I'm not jealous of her. Is she as beautiful as I am?" "I don't think so," he answered stiffly. "Needless," he answered stiffly.

"Don't you like me—just the tiniest bit?" Her rich voice had been wheedling, yet utterly confident. "I'm afraid not," he answered, coldly, whereupon she had sprung from him like an angry cat.

"You're the first man who has ever told me that," she hissed. "By heavens, I'll make you pay for it." "Chance had favored her insanely. She had made him pay that night. He had drifted with his party to a local night club—a tawdry little place, more stupid than sinful. Cora Seton was there but took no notice of him. Then came the police raid and the lights were put out. In the subsequent scramble he was separated from his party, slipped out by a back way, and returned alone to his hotel.

The next morning he learned that a plain clothes policeman had been struck by a bottle and died of his injuries. Cora, it was, who had sworn she had seen him strike the blow while he was taking her home. One arm of his, she swore, was about her waist when the blow was struck. As Douglas Harris he was charged. As Douglas Harris, since his true identity could not save him, he was convicted.

He spent the night, wide-eyed, reliving the scenes of the past. He did not think of the strange letter again until he was being marched with the gang through the gates of the prison. Then came the savage passion for freedom, the sickening fear that the van would not stop.

The van came up behind them, and he decided to let it go. The driver sounded his horn. By some queer trick of the brain the horn seemed to galvanize him. Of a sudden he was intensely alive, aflame with the love of adventure. He sprang, caught the rail, and swung himself on to the van. Warden Spileman fired.

Dutch Faisst, Eyesight Restored, Strengthens Tech's Backfield

BRYAN GRANT ADVANCES IN NET MEET

DUTCH FAISST, EYESIGHT GOOD; WILL AID TECH

Poor Sight Handicapped Work in Past; Expects Good Year.

By Ralph McGill.
Harold (Dutch) Faisst is expected to become one of Georgia Tech's most effective backs before the 1929 season is completed.

The blonde halfback, an excellent broken field runner possessed of natural fieldwork, has been handicapped in the past by defective eyesight.

The eyes have been restored during the summer by a series of exercise treatments for the eye muscles and Faisst, his thick lenses gone, is possessed of eyesight that is practically normal.

Faisst was never able to capitalize his speed and natural ability because of this defect. The ball, passed back from center, came to him as a brown blur. He fumbled often.

SPECIAL GUARDS.
Seeking to use him, Coach Bill Alexander had a special headgear designed. It covered most of his face and enabled him to wear his glasses.

Various types of headgears were tried out, but proved unsuccessful. His side vision was thereby limited.

Protected glasses were tried with a steel web over them but they proved impracticable. The fumbles continued on the offense.

At defensive play Faisst was a liability. He was forced to play without glasses. This made it impossible for him to gauge his distances in meeting a runner for a tackle.

FAMILY GUAGE.
It was at breaking up forward passes that Faisst had his most difficult time. He could not gauge the gray blur in the air and coaches could not use him in games where the result might hinge on one of those winging balls.

Faisst used glasses with thick lenses. They were dropped and broken a few weeks ago. He then consented to try the treatment of the eye muscles. Officials said yesterday afternoon that his eyes were practically normal and that he had been working without glasses all summer.

With his eyes normal and his confidence in his ability restored Faisst should prove to be a very effective back. He is fast, strong and a perfect left-halfback type. He was used at quarterback for a time during the spring practice. His work will be watched with interest.

Hal Barron Back at Work.

Hal Barron, Tech track coach, returned yesterday from Lake Barabara where he was director at Camp Marist.

"I read in 'The Constitution,'" said Barron, of how the Inman Park Cardinals climbed to the top of the Washington monument and tired themselves out for the prize.

"It reminded me of a trip I took to Washington with the Pennsylvania track team some years ago," he said, "and it proves that boys aren't the only ones to pull stunts like that."

"We had never been south before and we were going around carefully, expecting to step in the Gulf of Mexico most any time. We weren't taking the trip very seriously and went sight-seeing the day before the match. We got to the Washington monument. We had a sprinter who decided he would run all the 989 steps to the top. He did it but in the dashes next day he finished last."

Trainer and Coach Expected This Week.

Mike Miles, new backfield coach from Princeton, is expected to arrive in Atlanta the latter part of the week. Mike Chambers, former trainer at Ohio State, was written in that he will be on hand Saturday. Meanwhile the football uniforms are being prepared and will be ready for issue on Monday morning. The Southern conference rulings forbid the issuance of any football equipment before the first Monday in September, the opening day of practice.

Boil on Heel Shelves Barron.

Pat Barron, last of the Barrons and a lad who has been counted on to help the Jockey cause this fall by taking the ball on long trips into enemy territory, may not be able to report for the first practice. He called at Coach Alexander's office Monday afternoon without having had his heel, on which a boil has grown to amazing proportions.

He was sent out to have it lanced, and it is probable that the wound and after effects will now, permit him to do his football regalia when Alex blows his whistle next Tuesday afternoon.

Watkins Released From Hospital

"Cool" Watkins, star tackle on the Georgia Tech football team for the past two seasons, who was severely injured several days ago, is expected to be released from Davis-Fischer hospital today. It was learned from hospital authorities Monday night. He is much improved and has been using a rolling chair on the roof of the hospital for several days. He will be taken to his home, 499 Atwood street, S. W.

Impartiality in meting justice through the courts of base ball and of the general law is an ideal difficult of attainment.

Spectators in the bleachers at Memphis, to give a specific example, throw pop-bottles at players; none is arrested or fined.

A ball player retaliates and throws pop-bottles at spectators; he is fined in police court and from the bench of baseball draws a fine and suspension.

It should be no more serious offense at law for a ball player to throw pop-bottles at spectators than for spectators to throw bottles at players. Yet in the aftermath of the second annual Memphis-Atlanta riot one infers that there is a difference.

THE ANSWER.

The answer lies in the fact that the bottle-throwing spectator is disguised by his plurality. He is hidden by being in a crowd. The ball player is in full view and easily identified.

The minions of the law instantly can apprehend a ball player who stands in full view of the crowd and throws a bottle.

But they cannot anticipate a volley of bottles from a crowd and spot the offenders, although for many minutes such an outburst of fan rage easily is forecast by everybody else within earshot of the game.

MAGNETS FAIL.

Magnates go to great lengths to protect spectators from ball players by hiring policemen to watch the game.

However, they rarely go to lengths to protect ball players from bottle-throwers by stationing policemen in bleachers. The latter course is expensive; ball players, in a way, are cheap.

Ball players should realize this and take their pop-bottles calmly on the skull. They have two strikes on them in the bottle-throwing game before they stoop to pick one up.

THE TWO BLACK SPOTS.

Memphis and New Orleans are the principal pop-bottle-throwing centers of the Southern league. Every season New Orleans and Memphis have at least one big pop-bottle-throwing day in which players, umpires, policemen and bystanders are hit. Fans in those two centers have developed marvelous accuracy with the ordinary varieties of soft drink bottle.

It is said that several regular customers at Jules Heinemann's park in New Orleans can hit an umpire at 16 yards, 98x100.

There is no truth in the report that Heinemann annually awards marksman, sharpshooter and expert rifleman medals to proficient fans. Investigation, however, has shown that Heinemann ordinarily does not hire plainclothes men to spot offenders in the bleachers nor has he ever sent flowers to the survivors of casualties among umpires and visiting ball players.

MEMPHIANS FALL SHORT.

In Memphis the general average is lower than in New Orleans. This is because the bottle-throwing squad is forced to sit in small bleachers in right field where it is very hot.

Only the shanty boatmen from the river can stand the heat, it is said.

Their aim is not so good on account of the deleterious effect on the eyes of the reflection of the sun on the surface of the river to which they are constantly exposed. However, the Memphis average steadily is improving.

NONE IN ATLANTA.

Atlanta never has had an outbreak of bottle throwing. The Atlanta fans have a sense of humor such as one finds in any metropolitan center.

Only in incurably "small" towns does baseball still bring out the bottle-throwing complex of crowds. Atlanta long since outgrew such notions.

It may be said in rebuttal by Memphis and New Orleans champions that Cracker fans HAD to have a sense of humor to keep coming to the ball park when their club had finished three years straight in second division.

If they do say it, I will maintain a dignified silence.

MARTIN FINES AND SUSPENDS DICK BURRUS

Cracker Player and Prothro Pay Fines for Clash at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., August 27. (AP)—John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, today penalized two players involved in disorders during Sunday's game here between Atlanta and Memphis, and served notice that "these disturbances must be stopped."

Manager "Doc" Prothro, of the Chicks, and Dick Burrus, Cracker first baseman, were fined $15 each for fighting. Burrus was fined $25 additional and suspended indefinitely for throwing a pop bottle into the bleachers.

Besides the fine and suspension imposed by the league executive, Burrus lost a $50 cash bond which he posted at police headquarters after his arrest yesterday on a charge of assault with a bottle. The bond was declared forfeited when he did not appear for hearing in police court this afternoon.

The trouble started in the seventh inning with the Chicks at bat. When umpire Homer James signaled to Blanton, Atlanta pitcher, to pitch while Berger, Memphis catcher, was protesting a called strike, and then called the pitched ball a strike. A shower of pop bottles descended from the grand stand.

A bottle from the right field bleachers then sailed onto the field and narrowly missed Burrus, who hurried back toward the bleachers. Prothro said he told Manager Wilbur Good, of Atlanta, that Burrus had caused the trouble by throwing a bottle into the bleachers. Burrus, Prothro said, cursed him and called him a "liar," whereupon the Chick pilot said, "I took a punch at him and the fight was on."

In penalizing the players involved, Martin said he regretted "My lack of power to bring punishment to every spectator who threw a pop bottle or other missile upon the field."

"The man who hurls a pop bottle toward a player or an umpire is indescribably despicable," Martin said. "When excitement is at fever heat, his malicious action not only subjects umpires and players to chance of serious injury, but endangers the lives of spectators. These disturbances must be stopped."

Bobby Hits First Shot in California

Here's Bobby completing the first golf shot he ever made in California. It was at the start of a practice round on the Lakeside Country Club, Los Angeles. Jones is busy preparing for the defense of his amateur title at Pebble Beach in September. His practice rounds indicate that he is in fine form.

FAVORITES WIN AT BROOKLINE

Seven of Eight Seeded Teams Come Through. Southerners Beaten.

Brookline, Mass., August 26.—(AP)—Seven of the eight seeded American and foreign teams striving for titular honors in the 48th national doubles championship tennis tournament today were able to overcome strong opposition in the opening play on the Longwood courts. Such a display of skill running true to form has been rare in the current turf campaign.

The only dent in the preferred list came when Guy Cooper and Paul Dirou, the Anglo-French combination, were able to overcome strong opposition in the opening play on the Longwood courts. Such a display of skill running true to form has been rare in the current turf campaign.

R. O. CARRIGAN MEETS DEFEAT IN FIRST ROUND

Annual State Tennis Tourney Opens With Large Entry.

By Herb Clark.
Without a single upset in any division, the Georgia state tennis tournament being played on the East Lake courts this week entered the second round.

Bryan Grant, present holder of the title and a youngster who is fast acquiring a national reputation, on the courts decided at the last moment to enter the lists in defense of his crown, and had little difficulty in disposing of R. O. Carrigan by 6-0, 6-1 scores.

Robert "Lefty" Bryan, the Chattanooga who has been making the rounds in the biggest tournaments in the past few weeks, arrived just in time to enter the field and took the court immediately after his train ride to eliminate H. Compton, of Atlanta, 6-2, 6-4.

MOONEY VICTORIOUS.
Jack Mooney, Grant's old standby as an opponent, and who was seeded at the top of the lower bracket, came through without the loss of a single game, downing Phil Essig by 6-0, 6-0 scores. All seeded players in the men's division came through with little trouble, Bryan's battle being the hardest played by a seeded man.

Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., downed Charles Napier, of Wilmington, N. C., 6-2, 6-2; Billy Armstrong, Atlanta favorite, entered the second round by a 6-3, 6-2 verdict over Bob Brown, another Atlanta, Jack Simpson, Atlanta, defeated Ray Barnes, of Tampa, at 6-2, 6-3; James Halverstadt, of Atlanta, won from Ed Newell, of Chattanooga, by default; P. McDaniel, of Atlanta, defaulted to Ralph Demott, also of Atlanta.

Few upsets are expected in this afternoon's matches, as the experts should face opposition which is not rated as strong enough to produce a fall from the ranks.

Pairings for the women's singles and for all classes of doubles compete.

Pyle Is Sued By Jim Thorpe

Los Angeles, August 26.—(AP)—A second complaint, charging theft of labor, was ordered filed today by City Prosecutor Lloyd S. Nix against C. C. Pyle, sports promoter, in connection with allegedly unpaid labor bills pending from his transcontinental foot race of a few weeks ago.

The complaint was signed by Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete, who charged that $250 due him in connection with the Pyle "Bunion Derby" had not been paid. Stating a complaint charging Pyle with violation of the state labor laws was issued by Nix following failure of the promoter to satisfy the claim. It was filed by Paul Hickman, leader of a group of actors.

Concussion on the charge of theft of labor carries a fine of $500 or six months in jail or both. Violation of the state labor law conviction carries a like penalty.

A suit for $6,000 in prize money has been filed by Guisto Umek, Italian runner, who finished third in the foot race.

Interest Aroused In Chocolate Go

New York, August 26.—(AP)—Increasing interest in the 12-round bout between Kid Chocolate of Cuba and Al Singer of the Bronx, only two rounds Thursday night indicated to-day that it probably would attract a larger crowd than the Gene Tunney-Tom Heenan heavyweight title fight July 7, 1928.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to pay close to $300,000 to see the contest between two youngsters who have been fighting only two rounds. Seats are scaled from $1 to $13.

Betting odds continue to favor Singer. W. L. Darnell and Co., Broadway betting commission, today quoted Singer a 3 to 2 favorite. Odds of 1 to 2 1/2 are available that Singer wins by a knockout.

All talk that Singer might not be able to make the weight limit of 128 3/4 has been dispelled by latest reports from the Bronx by a training camp at Housick Falls, N. Y. Singer weighed 128 1/2 after Sunday's workout and was around the same figure after today's session.

Wadley To Coach Ends at Furman

Frank Wadley, end on Tech's team last year, will be an assistant coach at Furman university this fall. It was announced Monday afternoon. Wadley has accepted a position under Dad Amis, former Tech center, and will serve as end coach.

Wadley completed his course at Tech last year, graduating with honors, and has been playing basketball at Furman only two years. In his sophomore year he played only one minute in one game and finished his allotted time in football last fall.

At the end of school he was signed to a Memphis baseball contract and has been playing with Knoxville in the South Atlantic league. He is one of the five leading hitters in the league.

Cubs' Powerful Bats Will Prove Disastrous To A's, Experts Believe

OPINIONS SWITCH AS BRUIN CLUB SWEEPS AHEAD

National Leaders Now Hold Attention of Critics as Close Nears.

By Walter Trumbull.
(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
New York, August 26.—Before the Yankees played the St. Louis Cardinals in the world's series last season, the National league players openly picked the St. Louis team, but, if they knew you well enough, they would tell you privately that they thought the Yanks were too strong for their opponents, in spite of the result of the series of 1926.

This year it's different. The National league players in general have a lot of respect for the Chicago Cubs. One veteran, on being asked that I wouldn't quote him by name, told me that he believed that the Cubs would win in not over five games.

It is rather funny how the boys have changed their opinion of the Chicago team. Earlier in the season most of them were picking Pittsburgh. They said the Cubs were not a good road team and that the pitchers were inclined to use their arms rather than their heads.

Even John McGraw, before the season opened, said that Pittsburgh and Chicago were the two teams the Giants had to beat, but that the Pirates looked a little bit more formidable. Of course, you cannot tell how well Pittsburgh might have gone if Grimes and Traynor had not been injured. But we all know how well the Cubs have done.

The players think that pitching is fully 70 per cent of a win, and start to figure from there. They admit that Grover and Earsnow are great left-handers, but figure that while southpaws are fine against Ruth, Gehrig and the left-handed batters of the Yankees, they will be far less effective against Chicago's right-handed hitters. Hornsby, Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson are a tough collection for any pitcher to face. Strangely enough, the Cubs themselves appear to regard the Yankees highly. They should Grover, but claim that if they should do well against any left-hander.

MURDER FAST BALLS.
The pitchers and catchers who have worked against the Cubs should know something of their ability, so I have talked to all the hurlers and receivers I could reach. They are all highly opinionated, but all agree that the Chicago batters naturally murder fast ball pitchers and that Grover, Walberg and Earsnow are of that type. What they do not appear to realize is that both Grover and Earsnow have a fine change of pace. Earsnow, especially, not only has blinding speed, but also has a corking slow ball and isn't afraid to use it.

Moreover, Connie Mack has been in this baseball business for some years and knows all about the Chicago hitters. He has plenty of pitchers of all sizes and types. And he also has some pretty good fielders and hitters.

Criticism that I consider more to the point says that the Cubs may come fresher to the series than the Athletics. Some of the Mackmen have been injured this season. Simmons has had a bit of trouble with his legs and the pitchers at times have shown signs of being tired.

But the time must arrive before long when Mack can rest his regulars, one or two at a time. This always is a delicate business. You can keep a man out long enough to give him a little rest, but you can't keep him out long enough for him to lose his momentum or dull his batting eye.

AWAY FROM PARK.
It always has seemed to me that the correct manner to give a man a rest is not merely to take him off the bench. It is to keep him away from the ball yard for a couple of days and still see that he doesn't tire himself more in that time than he would if he came to the park.

A real rest means relaxation of body and mind, not merely changing the form of exercise. Tommy worked this thing out as well as any man I ever saw. He could relax nerves and muscles any time he cared to and permit nature to fill the reserve tank with a little more energy for future use.

It proved to be a good enough system to make him a heavyweight champion of the world.

Midwicks Take Second Crown

Chicago, August 25.—(AP)—The Midwick Club of Pasadena, Cal., today won its second national polo title within two weeks, defeating Fort Leavenworth, Kan., 11 to 7.

In the finals of the United States Polo Association 12-goal championship the Midwicks last week won the inter-circuit championship.

JUDGING THE SHOWS

Critical Comments on Current Playhouse Programs

Loew's Capitol

Ruth Chatterton Is Superb in Title Role of "Madame X"
Dramatic Picture.

A visit to Loew's Capitol during the current week is heartily recommended for those who desire to see one of the best all-talking pictures that has graced an Atlanta screen in many months and one of the most unnecessary vaudeville bills that have been perpetrated recently.

Ruth Chatterton, in the title role of "Madame X," the screen attraction, is superb. On her fall and entirely capable shoulders falls almost the entire burden of making a highly melodramatic plot ring true in every detail. Not that the support accorded her is lacking in any respect, but the story is so good, the acting is so good, and the way she performs must be seen and heard to be fully appreciated.

The story has to do with a wife of the misunderstood variety who elopes with the other man, leaving a husband and a young son. Her husband, portrayed by Lewis Stone, refuses her a glimpse of her son at a time when this small favor would have been sufficient to pull her through a great crisis. He spends the rest of his life repenting while his wife takes her broken heart on the downward path, a trail that leads her to all parts of the world. The Lewis Stone, her son, a grown man is defending her on a murder charge without knowing her identity, is one calculated to give a kick to the most hardened theater-goer.

As regards the vaudeville, the least said the better. York and Lord put on some fairly amusing nonsense while the Tiny Town Revue was quite passable as midweek acts.

The feature begins at 1, 4, 7 and 10 p. m.

Keith's Georgia

Barthelmess Fails To Solve In-Law Problem in Interesting Film.

Richard Barthelmess tries to solve the in-law problem at Keith's Georgia this week and failed, running away to Paris to escape, thus proving that there is realism in the movies. No one ever solved the problem except by hauling freight.

The play deals with a young man who is successful in a small way until he married and finds he married a family. And he turned down the right girl to get the family.

The right girl leaves him hating the family for his very existence. His wife, playing it safe, isn't with him when he makes good, but arrives with the family when he does. She worked on the theory that it was more blessed to receive than to give.

It is Barthelmess' best picture in some time. He is more mature in the "drag" and some of his acting is the "best" has done since "Tobacco Road." The sound sequences admirably aren't his own, but there is none of "Half Marriage," Story of Young Love, Ends Happily For All Concerned.

A zippy story of young love, a Greta Garbo marriage, and sudden but deserved death to the rich, youthful villain, is unfolded in "Half Marriage" at the Rialto theater this week. Apparent ruin for the struggling young architect and his secret bride are turned at the last moment into a glowing future of promise and the picture ends happily.

Personally, I like happy endings in a movie. They leave you in a good frame of mind, which is generally the objective of a search for entertainment. There's too much tragedy and sorrow in the outside world to look for it in a movie house. "Half Marriage" is good entertainment, well worth the price of admission. Gus Arnheim and his "Ambassadors" furnish the musical bits.

The feature begins at 1:18, 3:56, 6:32 and 9:46.

Metropolitan

Milton Sills, Famed "He-Man" Does Well in "Love and the Devil."

In this childhood of civilization when presidents read detective stories and boast of it, lesser being may be fully justified in doing over late romantic of the most romantic and oft-repeated brand.

In such a love story Milton Sills, famed "He-Man" of the screen, appears this week at the Metropolitan theater. The name of the film is "Love and the Devil." We take it that "Devil" in the title metaphorically stands for the monster jealousy, which proves so disturbing an element in Lord Dunsany's (Milton Sills) love life. Surely it was not intended as an epithet for Ben Bard, the mischievous Venetian lover and reason for Lord Dunsany's jealousy, and as the admirable villain of the play, the only other element of the narrative upon which the satanic aspect could be cast.

The female lead is carried by Maria Corda as Giovanna Elvi, the Venetian prima donna, betrothed to Lord Dunsany by her father, the Duke of Venice. Beautiful, easy to love, easy to be jealous, Giovanna shares her infatuation for her betrothed only with her love for her native Venice.

But husband Sills, English nobleman, Congo explorer and handy with a gun, fails to understand this. Blindly jealous he believes his wife is a fortune teller, and he believes his wife is a fortune teller, and he believes his wife is a fortune teller.

Startings of the feature picture are at 11:10 a. m., 2:10, 4:40, 7:10, 9:40 and 11:40 p. m.

Howard Theater

William Powell Suave As Ever in Solving "Greene Murder Case."

Phil Vance in the person of William Powell deduces his way every bit as smoothly and as uninterrupted by through "The Greene Murder Case," current screen feature at the Howard theater, as he did through the recent Canary case, and as a result of some of S. S. Van Dine's "psychology patterns," manages to solve a complicated series of family murders.

The clever detective proves just exactly how clever he is by reading the whole solution of the Greene mystery out of a crime book, thus saving himself a lot of mental effort and the audience a lot of tiresome dialogue. Most of his explanations are by way of the consistently dumb police detective, Eugene Pallette.

"The Greene Murder Case" proves an excellent vehicle for a sound picture, being made up entirely of dialogue scenes. The string of three or maybe four murders—we began to use "murder" acerbically—palely by means of a shot-off-green, a well-timed scream or a surprise telephone message. As a whole, however, the picture is interesting with as good a continuity as can be expected in the avalanche of mystery pictures.

Supporting the feature picture is a short talking comedy with Harry Holman that literally laughs to shine any other efforts along that line. The laughs fall thick and fast in a short scene in a busy man's office and make the comedy the brightest spot on the Howard bill.

The main picture is scheduled for 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 every day during the present week.

Metropolitan

Milton Sills, Famed "He-Man" Does Well in "Love and the Devil."

In this childhood of civilization when presidents read detective stories and boast of it, lesser being may be fully justified in doing over late romantic of the most romantic and oft-repeated brand.

In such a love story Milton Sills, famed "He-Man" of the screen, appears this week at the Metropolitan theater. The name of the film is "Love and the Devil." We take it that "Devil" in the title metaphorically stands for the monster jealousy, which proves so disturbing an element in Lord Dunsany's (Milton Sills) love life. Surely it was not intended as an epithet for Ben Bard, the mischievous Venetian lover and reason for Lord Dunsany's jealousy, and as the admirable villain of the play, the only other element of the narrative upon which the satanic aspect could be cast.

The female lead is carried by Maria Corda as Giovanna Elvi, the Venetian prima donna, betrothed to Lord Dunsany by her father, the Duke of Venice. Beautiful, easy to love, easy to be jealous, Giovanna shares her infatuation for her betrothed only with her love for her native Venice.

But husband Sills, English nobleman, Congo explorer and handy with a gun, fails to understand this. Blindly jealous he believes his wife is a fortune teller, and he believes his wife is a fortune teller, and he believes his wife is a fortune teller.

Startings of the feature picture are at 11:10 a. m., 2:10, 4:40, 7:10, 9:40 and 11:40 p. m.

RICHARD ARLEN AND MARY BRIAN

STAR AT CAMEO

Both Mary Brian and Richard Arlen have given promise of great things in the past, but in "The Man I Love," the all-talking feature showing at the Cameo today and Wednesday, they reach their glorious fulfillment.

The picture tells the story of a couple of youngsters deeply in love who go to New York to seek fortune. Although they are married, the temptations of the metropolis lead the boy astray and adventure follows adventure until they come together again.

In addition to the talking roles Miss Brian sings the theme song "Celia," which is especially worth hearing.

WARREN PACKARD KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AT DETROIT

Detroit, August 26.—(AP)—Warren Packard, son of W. D. Packard, Warren, Ohio, one of the founders of the Packard Motor Car Company, was killed and Talbot Barnard, his companion, seriously injured here late today when their small seaplane fell in an inlet of the Detroit river.

Witnesses said the ship spun down from an altitude of more than 1,000 feet after something apparently had gone wrong with the motor and struck a piling marking the river edge of some marshy land. Packard died in a hospital.

Packard has been managing his father's estate since the death of the latter about three years ago, as well as the estate of his uncle, the late J. D. Packard, another of the founders of the Packard Company. During the war he was an ensign in the United States navy.

DINNER IS SERVED!

ABOARD A SAVANNAH LINER

There is a saving among seasoned globe-trotters: "Judge a ship by the meals she serves. Good meals—good ship. It holds good nine out of ten times."

So, let us describe a typical dinner aboard a Savannah Liner.

Through the open ports a cooling breeze is blowing. The orchestra, of musicians from leading Southern colleges, is playing as only college lads can play. We sit down with appetizers sharpened by the world's best appetizer—good salt sea air.

The steward sets before us a deliciously cool grapefruit cocktail. We choose between a rich shrimp soup or a consommé Julien. Then peruse a bit of fresh-caught fish. Follows chicken à la King, leg of lamb with mint sauce, or a prime roast of beef. And, of course, a dab of cooling peach sherbet to give us a renewed appetite. Vegetables fresh from the Savannah market and a Waldorf salad. Dessert. Shall we have some cheese or nuts and raisins? And a crowning touch, a demi-tasse, clear and strong. The kind you get in the best Parisian restaurants.

Why not go North this summer on a Savannah Liner? The price, including meals on the ship, even cabin-deck with twin beds and private bath—is less than the cost of the all-rail way. Ask any railroad ticket agent at all points North or East. Or write OCEAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY of SAVANNAH, 37 Bull Street, Savannah, Ga.

MILITARY FUNERAL PLANNED FOR TYSON

National Guard Units To Be Called Out for Duty at Event.

Knoxville, Tenn., August 26.—(AP)—Military and clerical arrangements for the funeral here Wednesday of Senator L. D. Tyson were completed today. His services in the World and Spanish-American wars entitled him to military honors.

Those in charge were notified the body would leave Philadelphia tonight and arrive here tomorrow afternoon, accompanied by Senator Tyson's widow, his only daughter, and possibly by several of the colleagues asked to attend after his death Saturday in a Pennsylvania sanitarium.

Knoxville units of the National Guard, reserve officers, members of the American Legion and Spanish-American war veterans were invited to participate. Governor Horton, who has promised to be present, was asked to detail at least one troop of National Guard infantry from some other city.

Mrs. Tyson sent instructions for the body's removal, under a guard of honor of 12 army reserve officers, directly to the Tyson home tomorrow. She had not replied to suggestions that it be in state either there or at the Masonic temple. The temple was the home of her father, the late Colonel Charles McChesney, and in one of its rooms, she and Senator Tyson were married.

W. H. Spence, municipal director of public safety and colonel of one of the regiments of the World War brigade commanded by Senator Tyson, said the funeral will be semi-military. The civil services to be held at St. John's Episcopal church and in Old Gray cemetery by Bishop Thomas P. Gailor, of the Episcopal diocese of Tennessee, preclude full military honors.

The arrangements provide military escort to the cemetery and about the grave, and troops after the services are ended.

ATLANTA EXHIBITS FOR FLOWER SHOW TO BE SENT TODAY

Atlanta's exhibits for the second annual air mail flower show in Milwaukee, Wis., August 28, 29 and 30, will leave on the Chicago plane of Interstate Airlines, Inc., at 9:25 o'clock this morning.

This event is being sponsored by the Postal Employees' Association of Milwaukee with the co-operation of the postoffice department and various air mail lines.

W. H. Frezant, superintendent of mails at the Atlanta office, is in charge of the local exhibits and worked until a late hour Monday night arranging the contributions. He planned to have as many entries in the various prize lists as possible.

Prizes are to be awarded for the greatest distance, best rose exhibit, best gladioli exhibit, best dahlia exhibit, best bouquet of mixed flowers, most unique flower, best individual flowers, best design, best aster exhibit and the best Wisconsin exhibit.

Burns Hopes Prison Board Will Reconsider His Plea

BY SAMMY ADAMS.
LaGrange, Ga., August 26.—(Special.)—Hope that the state prison commission would reconsider his plea for clemency was expressed here today by Robert Elliott Burns, former Chicago magazine editor and Georgia changing escape who is now a Troup county convict.

Burns, on learning that he had been refused clemency by the prison commission Saturday, immediately wrote Governor L. G. Hardman a letter asking him to reconsider his plea.

"That was my first step in my campaign to obtain clemency," Burns said, "and the second is that I'm going to be a model prisoner here."

"If the purpose of imprisonment is correction, then I think I have shown by my statements and the press but lesson in the six months I was held in the Fulton county tower eight years ago."

"I think my history in connection with my founding and publication of Greater Chicago magazine ought to show the commission that I am not a criminal," he said, admitting, however, that "I wouldn't be here if I hadn't broken the law once upon a time."

His reference was to a hold-up staged in Atlanta following his return from France at the close of the war, which netted him about $4 and prison sentence of from 15 to 10 years.

"With all respect to Mr. Hardy, who I guess, has a model stockade, I cannot say here six years and take up my work again as publisher with the same efficiency that I could show now. No man could, prison life anywhere is hard, very hard, and six years is a long time to be out of practice."

Clad in regulation stripes, the only indication of his profession a pair of shell-rimmed glasses, a silver fountain pen and pencil clipped to his coat.

After his escape nearly eight years ago he went to Chicago, worked at various things for two years, then founded his civic magazine "Greater Chicago," its progress in five years was excellent, he said. The average circulation now, he pointed out, is 18,000; special editions have gone as high as 60,000.

When notified Saturday afternoon that the prison commission had turned down his petition for clemency, Burns prepared a little letter for the press but guards, in the absence of the warden, refused to release it. The whereabouts of the statement now is a mystery. It was not returned to Burns, who said that after reconsidering he was glad the statement did not go out, and that it might have contained something a little harsh under the impulse of the moment, and that his intention now is to do or say nothing which would injure his chances of winning a good impression with the commission.

Burns, Sunday mailed a letter to William Schley Howard, his Atlanta lawyer. It is known, a money order for $15 was sent Burns Saturday morning by his brother, a minister with headquarters in LaGrange, in his efforts toward obtaining a release.

Women Pilots Are Praised By Rickenbacker, U. S. Ace

BY CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER.
(Written for the United News.)
Cleveland, O., August 26.—A fleet of skilled woman pilots—the first to compete in a trans-continental race limited to members of the more expensive sex, winged across the finish line before the massed thousands at the Cleveland airport in the finish of the first airplane derby for women.

Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Pittsburgh, a slender girl in her early 20's, was the winner, and Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., second. Miss Phoebe Umlie, of Memphis, was easily a runner-up in the high division.

Plucky women accomplished what men could not have done little more than a decade ago. It was a demonstration of the advance of aviation and the growing knowledge of it that stimulated the imagination and roused the enthusiasm of the thousands who are here in Cleveland for the greatest air show ever staged. A crowd of more than 30,000 saw the finish of the women's air derby.

When I go out for a drive my younger sister sits on my lap and learns to handle the wheel. When he is 16 he will be a better driver than I am. It is possible that by then he will be a better airplane pilot than his dad. The Lindbergh family—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, who is a great aviator, who has visited us at the air races to-day—furnish an example of the coming method of flying instruction. Mrs. Lindbergh learned from her husband.

GROCEER ROBBED, LOCKED IN STORE BY BANDIT TRIO

Three unmasked white bandits early Monday night held up an L. W. Rogers grocery store at 1763 Gordon street, robbed it of $100.56, and left him locked in the store, according to police reports.

Smith told Motorcycle Officers F. O. Bishop and T. J. Smith that the trio accosted him just as he was locking the door for the night. They forced him back into the store, removed the door, receipts from his pockets and forced him to walk to the back of the store. They then walked out and slammed the door, locking Smith on the inside with his keys in the outside of the lock. He was released by passers-by whose attention he attracted by pounding on the door. The robbers were said to have escaped in a large green sedan.

CLEANING SHOTGUN, MAN IS SEVERELY WOUNDED IN FOOT

Leon Cooper, 25, of 554 Paynes avenue, suffered a serious wound in the left foot Monday night when a shotgun was accidentally discharged as he was cleaning it at his home.

Cooper was alone at the time, his wife having gone to a theater, but the sound of the shot and his cries aroused neighbors, who took him to Grady hospital. Doctors found that the foot had been virtually blown off and said that amputation probably would be necessary. Cooper was able to give an account of the accident to Motorcycle Officer D. L. Taylor.

PERFECT BRIDGE HAND IN HEARTS HELD BY ATLANTA

Mrs. U. A. Morton, of 557 Glenwood avenue, "joined the bridge players' club Monday night, when she was dealt 13 hearts in one hand while playing with her husband, Mrs. Elizabeth Morton and Charles Pascher.

Contrary to expectations, Mrs. Morton did not lose her presence of mind when the entire suit in hearts was dealt her, but in orthodox manner bid the hand thoroughly according to the rules of Hoyle. Work on any other expert. Her opponents, startled at the bid, doubled. Mrs. Morton redoubled, then laid down her hand and explained that the scorer carefully compute her points.

These included 125 for game, seven hearts doubled and redoubled for 224; 100 for filling her contract, 100 for a grand slam and 100 for honors, making a grand total of 649 points. If anyone doubts the story Mrs. Morton will cheerfully show them the very deck of cards from which the hand was dealt.

CAUGHT IN CHASE, NEGRO YOUTH HELD AS PURSE-SNATCHER

Joseph Harris, 18-year-old negro, Monday night was being held as one of two youths who early Monday night snatched a purse from Mrs. J. Jarrett, of 545 East Avenue, as she was entering the walk leading to her home. Harris was captured by Officer M. C. Evans and E. H. Norwood after a chase of seven or eight blocks but his companion escaped.

According to Mrs. Jarrett's account, she was walking toward her home when two negro boys ran to her side and one seized her purse. She resisted him and in the struggle the purse strap was broken and the bag dropped to the ground. The second negro seized it and starting running. Mrs. Jarrett's cries brought several neighbors to her aid and several men started in pursuit of the fleeing negroes. The officers were passing at the time and joined in the chase, overhauling Harris while his companion escaped.
